

Privacy Policy

Painfreewalking.com Privacy Policy:

This site is owned and operated by Therapeutics Distributors, LLC. Your privacy on the Internet is very important to us. We at Therapeutics Distributors, LLC want to make your online experience satisfying and safe. We respect your privacy and work diligently to ensure that any personally identifiable information you have submitted to us remains secure and confidential.

Because we gather certain types of information about our users, you should fully understand the terms and conditions surrounding the capture and use of that information. This privacy statement discloses what information we gather and how we use it.

What Information Might be Collected:

Therapeutics Distributors, LLC gathers two types of information about users:

1. Information that users provide through optional, voluntary submissions. These are voluntary submissions to receive our electronic publications/notices or to receive more information about our services. We may use this data to help us understand the demographics of our audience, but we do not divulge any information about an individual user to a third party for purposes of marketing or advertising.
2. Information we gather through aggregated tracking information, derived mainly by tallying page views throughout our site. This information allows us to better tailor our content to visitors' needs. We do not use this data to identify individual users.

How We Gather User Information:

1. Optional Voluntary Information.

We offer the following free services, which require some type of voluntary submission of personal information by users:

- a. Request for More Information. Therapeutics Distributors gathers voluntary contact information from users who would like to receive more information about our services. We may periodically send e-mails to users who have voluntarily submitted their information and have indicated a preference for receiving such notifications.
- b. Electronic Publications/Notices. We may offer electronic information from time to time, or on an as-needed basis. We gather the e-mail addresses of users who voluntarily subscribe to such services. Users may remove themselves from these mailing lists by following the links provided in publications/notices that points users to subscription management. Users can also subscribe to our services offered when requesting information about our services.

2. Children.

Consistent with the Federal Children’s Online Privacy Protection Act of 1998 (COPPA), we do not knowingly request personally identifiable information from anyone under the age of 13 without requesting parental consent.

3. Usage Tracking.

Therapeutics Distributors, LLC tracks user traffic patterns throughout our site. However, we do not correlate this information with data about individual users. We do break down overall usage statistics according to a user’s domain name, browser type and operating system by reading this information from the browser string (information contained in every user’s browser).

We sometimes track and catalog the search terms that visitors use to find our site (or terms entered into our Search function), but this tracking is not associated with individual users. We use tracking information to determine which areas of our site users prefer based on traffic to those areas. We do not track what individual users read, but rather how well each page performs overall. This helps us continue to build a better Web site for you.

4. Cookies.

We may place a text file called a “cookie” in the browser files of your computer. We use cookies to track user traffic patterns (as described above). Our advertising system delivers a one-time cookie to better track ad impressions and click rates. The cookie itself does not contain personal information although it will enable us to relate your use of our site to information that you have specifically and knowingly provided to us. The only personal information a cookie can contain is information you supply yourself. A cookie can’t read data off your hard disk or read cookie files created by other sites.

You can refuse cookies by turning them off in your browser. If you’ve set your browser to warn you before accepting cookies, you will receive the warning message with each cookie. You do not need to have cookies turned on to use our site. However, you do need cookies to participate actively in a registration and/or any information request.

5. Use of Information.

We use any information voluntarily given by our users to enhance their experience in our site, whether to provide interactive or personalized elements on the site or to better prepare future content based on the interests of our users. Information that users voluntarily submit via the Painfreewalking.com Web site may be shared, but access to such information is restricted to those individuals who need it to provide you with our services.

As stated above, we use information that users voluntarily provide in order to send out electronic notices/publications to enable users to receive additional information about our services and activities. We might send out such information to subscribers (depending on the content) on a schedule, and occasionally send out special notices when we think subscribers might be particularly interested in something we are doing.

We use tracking information to determine which areas of our site users visit most frequently, and we create aggregate reports on user demographics and traffic patterns to tailor our site to visitors’ needs. We will not disclose any information about individual users with any third party for purposes of marketing or advertising. However, we may share personal information with a third party for the following purposes:

- a. We may share personal information that you voluntarily provide with third parties who perform services to us or on our behalf. However, these third-party service providers are obligated to keep your personal information secure and confidential.
- b. We will share a user's personal information when it is required to comply with an applicable law or valid legal process, or to protect the personal safety of our users or the public. For example, we may disclose such information in response to a subpoena.
